Cate Mulligan

In addition to working as a product representative for many nationally advertised projects, I work as a creative consultant, digital designer and photographer working with clients in the arts and entertainment industries.

I have consulted and brainstormed with many Silicon Valley Businesses at the Internet's inception, including a project I championed now entitled YoutopiaU.com, which was grandfathered into the NASA ATCC Learning Technology Project Index as a cutting edge tool for social good and economic development.

While servicing local area artists, I run a creative-based BnB, (think immersive theatre) whose focus is on hosting/promoting creative individuals that want an insider track on local artists/galleries and events, in addition to providing on-site services to work with abandon on personal projects, or engage in a workshop or two in clay or pastel, not to mention an occasional tour of the most inspirational Big Sur.

My background in film/advertising has been instrumental in my understanding of branding as well as assisting in creating compelling interactive content.

I am skilled in Photoshop, and Illustrator, including landing pages, character creation, technical drawing, and illustration, as well as image archiving using Filmmaker Pro.
